Our Daily.

We dislike to have to make excuses for anything that does not come up to our ideal of right, but we think we owe this statement to the public, that we have been unable to secure the necessary amount of labor to set up our daily as we would have it, and that consequently we have been embarrassed, and with great difficulty been able to get off an issue. Our printers are doing double duty, and have had to work all night, and the citizens may be thankful as well as ourselves, to them for their kindness in standing the pressure upon them. We are at least grateful to them, and, under the circumstances, have done well in getting off as good editions as the last was.

We gave our town people a plain talk yesterday on their duty in reference to the Fair, and we think that a few more gentle hints are needed to have the desired effect of arousing the proper interest. If our citizens do not take an interest in the Fair others cannot be expected to do so, and the whole success of the institution depends upon the zeal manifested by the citizens of this place. Two years ago the people of this town were alive to their interest, and they won for themselves an enviable reputation for their public spirit and energy in building up the interests of their town, and while there is some apathy in this respect now, yet the same energy and enterprise exists, and only need be aroused to accomplish all desired.

Private citizens, merchants, professional men, and all citizens must attend the Fair, and give to its managers the warmest support.

Let the merchants not close their front doors and leave open their back doors, remaining in their stores all day, selling goods. This is not fair, for many of the merchants close their places of business, and all should do so. More goods will be sold by closing at 10 o'clock and opening at 4 o'clock, than to keep open all day; for parties will do their trading in the morning or after the Fair, knowing that they have only this time to make their purchases. We hope our citizens will see the necessity of taking an active interest in the Fair.

Penalties Under the New Lien Law.

We call the attention of our planters in friends to the following clause from the Act of the last Legislature, establishing a lien in favor of an employer and employee for interest in crop:

"Sec. 11. Be it further enacted, That if any person shall knowingly sell, or remove any agricultural product subject to any lien under the provisions of this Act, without having first fully paid up and satisfied such lien, such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than the value of the property so sold or removed, and imprisoned in the county jail not less than one or more than three months."

It will be remembered that every employee has a lien under this Act for labor done, and the employer for supplies furnished, and for his interest, so that each of them have a lien, and the produce subject to the lien cannot be moved without the consent of the other, or in obedience to the contract, or with motives that are not fraudulent. To establish the crime it is necessary for the intention of the party moving the produce to be felonious.

In law, a crime is presumed from the act of the party, and the presumption must be rebutted by the party charged, so that whenever a planter moves any produce in which any employee has an interest, without the consent of the employee, he commits a misdemeanor, and vice versa in an employee moving produce without consent of the employer.

We think our citizens should be guarded in reference to their actions in moving produce where others have an interest. This new lien law deserves the study of all our planters and merchants.

Important to Planters.

We give place to the following letter entire, believing that Capt. Willbourn's letter would be more explicit than anything we could write:

WILLBORN, Fayette Co., Tenn., Oct. 13, '72
Major Freeman Randolph, Sardis, Miss.

You will please notify the citizens and farmers generally, through the columns of your paper, that I will be in Sardis, Miss., the two last days of the Fair, and at Pleasant Mount the Saturday following, and will be prepared to take orders for emigrants and laborers, cooks and nurses. I expect to start to East Tennessee about the first of November. I think that I can supply the people, without any doubt, with all they may need. Let every man take some interest in this labor. The man that stands back and expects to steal his friend and neighbor's labor will be disappointed. Those fellows are not to be bought with a bribe. It is the duty of every farmer. Your lands and property will increase in value. The farmer will be no longer dependent on the colored gentlemen of the day, our once loved and prosperous country will once more be happy and prosperous. Success to the Fair, and may luck ever attend my Panola friends.

Respectfully, your friend.

J. G. WILBOURN.

Blann has just received a lot of new and assorted fine liquors, and he claims to have the best stock in the county, and he is willing for you to see whether he is joking about the matter or not, by calling upon "Deutcher" John for a sample
